Invitation to offer a workshop

at the International Curative Education and Social Therapy Conference, 3. – 7. October 2018
“Social Play Space – Making Room for Fulfilling Biographies”

We see our professional field as an interdisciplinary musical triad arising at the confluence of the Social Sciences, Education and Medicine. Over the course of the next years, we would like to use the International Conferences to explore this triad in all its variations. In 2018, to begin this process, we would like to place the question of social relationships and the creation of new social forms within a context of societal transformation into the foreground.

With these thoughts we turn to you, to ask you whether you could imagine making a contribution in the form of a workshop.

We warmly invite you to become an active collaborator in this conference by offering a workshop related to the conference theme. We would especially welcome workshops offered in collaboration with individuals with support needs and workshop formats based on dialogue and experiential activities.

Each workshop consists of three 90min sessions, one per day over the course of three consecutive days (Tue-Thu).

As customary for such international congresses, typically neither honoraria, nor travel and accommodation expenses are paid. However, those contributing lectures or workshops will be offered a free ticket for the entire conference.

Please submit your proposal, using the form on our website, by November 30, 2017.
We look forward to your ideas and will respond in early December.

With warm regards,

Sonja Zausch
